Communist forces landed on at least four islands of the Ladrones group in a fierce battle which raged the whole day yesterday, and the sound of which was audible in Hong Kong.

More than a dozen Nationalist warships, scattering over a wide area, were still shelling these islands with long range guns yesterday evening.

The islands invaded by the Communist forces are the Poklik (Taiputai) Island, main island of the Ladrones group about 18 miles South East of Macao, Wongmu Island, 12 miles South East of Macao, Chung Chau Shih Island, 10 miles East of Macao, and Chung Chow (Tsingchow) Island, the Northernmost island of the Lap Sap Mei-group.

Lap Sap Mei Island itself was believed to be still in the hands of the Chinese Nationalists up to yesterday evening.

Portuguese Gov't presented honour

Dr. Eduardo Brazao, Portuguese Consul in Hong Kong, yesterday presented the Club Lusitano with a diploma conferring upon the institution the distinction of an Officership in the Order of Christ, a rare Portuguete honour.

At the ceremony—which was held in the assembly room of the Club—were present leaders of the Portuguese community in the Colony and a special delegation from Macao.

The latter included Mr. Altino Salgado. Colonial Secretary, Macao, representing the Governor of Macao; Dom Joao de Deus Ramalho, the Catholic Bishop of Macao; Colonel Cotta Morais, Commander-in-Chief, Macao; and Mr. Alberto

"Pinky" is a credit to Hollywood film-makers

Roxy and Broadway Theatres, is without doubt one of the best films to come out of Hollywood since the end of the war, and a beartening sign of a more mature approach to film-making.

It achieves unusual realism and tackles the problem of the Negro in the Southern United States with a trankness that is astounding and commendable.

There was a time not so long ago, when a movie had to be entertainment first and foremost, hang the message or seriousness of the plot. The result was the "escapist" picture which, instead of "freeing" movie-goer from all the "inhibitions" dreamed up by our modern psychiatrists, usually left him more discontent with his lot than ever.

While the production of these films continues-and will as long as there are morons among men -it is gratifying to note that films dealing with something serious and important are finding favour among audiences, which in four capitalist society means they are "box office" attractions and therefore not to be sneezed at; hence we can expect more of them.

"Pinky" is a serious film-one of the most serious and thoughtprovoking and disturbing films Hollywood has ever made. It takes the case of Pinky, a Negro girl (Jeanne Crain), who is fair-skinned enough to pass for a White. She has graduated in a Northern town as a nurse and is in love with a doctor, but, afraid to tell him that her grandmother is coloured, she returns home to the South. Back in the appalling Negro quarter of her home town she is subjected to a succession of humiliations and cruelties—subtle ones as well as the more obas only he can. The court scene, in which the ease is heard, is one of the most cleverly constructed and effective ever made and I am not going to give away its skilfully concealed climax. It is enough to say that in its uncompromising attitude, subtlety and understanding of its approach, and the restraint and sensitivity of Elia Kazan's direction the picture never strikes a false note. 📝 Miss Crain, previously known to us as the bloom on some pretty musicals, comes trium-phantly through her test in this dramatic role. As the coloured grandmother, Ethel Waters is touchingly good, too.

Rating: 🛨 🛧 🛪 If you ever had a good time hating anyone, you can't afford to miss "Another Part of the Forest" which open next at the King's Theatre. Here are a whole flock of people you can hate to your heart's delight. But while you're hating them you will be kept on the edge of your seat by this exciting post-Civil War story enacted in an uncompromising, straight-forward manner. Lillian Hellman first created the Hubbard family for the Broadway play and subsequent picture, "The Little Foxes." "Another Part of the Forest" brings you the same selfish, blokering family one generation earlier. However, the family characteristics still prevail. And they are made to stand out vividly by one of the finest col-lections of individual portrayals Statements by American refugees from China about the rising pro-American sentiment in Shanghai drew from a leading New York paper the dry - comment that this was interesting but not signifleant. A curb on wish-thinking is necessary: there has been too much of it in the past, Everybody has been caught off guard. The conservatives who backed the Generalissimo never imagined his armies would lose the entire mainland in a year. The cosmopolitans who had weakness for the Communists never quite bargained for so complete a go-over to the Kremlin or so thorough-paced an economic revolution in the space of a few months.

The present feverish phase will run Its course, and it's risky to say just how long that will take. Certainly when the change does come, it will operate from altered economic foundations. The future of Western enterprise in China will be concerned much less with peanuts and dogskins much more with vast power schemes, railways, capital equipment generally, along the lines laid down in Sun Yat-sen's work on the International Development of China.

The change of sentiment that is going on is merely a portent. For some time to come we must expect the regime to vary shouts of triumph over the conquests of irony of it all. Sooner rather policy.

Burke's outlook

It was the great, though in stitutions as sacred by reason of their age. For Burke in his later life it was almost enough to say that an institution had its roots deep in time for him to gard it as sacrosanct. In younger days when his mind was more elastic. Burke had a much healthier outlook. At that time he defined government as "a contrivance of human wisdom for supplying human needs".

If the state is simply a contrivance of human wisdom, then its institutions' have to be changed either as wisdom increases or as the human needs change, as they must from decade to decade. There would be much less muddled thinking over reform if people would think of institutions not as things, but as ways of behaving or ways of managing thinks. That, really, is all they are, Law Courts, parliaments, and so on, are simply ways of managl and no more.

In all life, organic, animal, political, the basic laws are of growth and change. All nature is in a state of flux, and things in nature must change with nature. # Foreign Secretary on recognition of Peking BRITAIN'S TASK IN FAR EAST

London, May 24.

The Foreign Secretary, Mr. Ernest Bevin, defending his Government's recognition of Communist China in Parliament today, pressed his view that Mao Tsc-tung's Government should be admitted to the United Nations Organisation.

"We do not want to ostracise anyone on political grounds," Mr. Bevin asserted during a House of Commons debate on South East Asia and the Far East.

He was replying to a charge by Mr. Anthony Eden, a former Foreign Secretary who is now deputy leader of the Opposition, that British policy in recognising Communist China was out of step with the Commonwealth nations and the United States.

Mr. Eden suggested that it would have been wiser to delay recognition until there was a united front on the issue. . .

The Foreign Secretary said "If Britain, like the United States, had walked out of China I really think we should have thrown the Far East away forever. "I think it was right at the time not to leave the Russians to assume that they were the only people who wished to do anything at all for China", Mr. Bevin ndded.

But Mr. Bevin put the blame squarely on Russia for the United Nations deadlock on China. "America, with all her feeling for China, has made a very fair offer," Mr. Bevin said.

America had agreed not to vote, but not to veto too. If seven other Security Council members voted to admit Communist China, America had agreed to accept the

Mr. Bevin said that British interests had been hard hit by the blockade of the Chinese Nationalist forces in Taiwan. But the United States and Britain were tion in trying to stabilise the position in China today. "I cannot believe, however, that all Chinese have become Communists overnight such as is suggested," he said.

Eastern German army a problem for the West

London, May 24. Many British newspapers today gave front-page prominence to the Western Governments' protest to Moscow against the building up of an army in Eastern Germany.

'The Times" said in an editorial, "In protesting to Moscow against the existence of strongly armed police units in Eastern Germany the Western Governments have really put a question to themselves.

"What is their own policy to be in face of this dangerous breach of the numerous four-Power agreements on the disarmament of Germany?"

EMPIRE BARRIER TO REDS

Liverpool, May 24. The Attorney-General, Sir Hartley Shawcross, said today that the Commonwealth nations are the main barrier to extension of the Communist ideology spreading through Asla. The Commonwealth nations could defeat Communism not by force of arms but by presenting the example of a better world's rising material standards, political and social progress and freedom. Speaking to the Royal Empire Society here, he said: "I believe that we may look

HINT TO AMERICA

Washington, May 24. Sir John Kotelwala, Ceylon's Transport Minister, told a Press conference in Washington today that America should store some of her surplus wheat in the stomachs of his people.

"The U.S. should send its wheat to aid us in the fight against Communism-or else should sell to us at a lower price, the resteto be paid later," he said.

He advocated the return of Japan and West Germany to full production so that cheaper goods, especially machinery and textiles, could be made available to South East Asia.

Hunger, disease and ignorance were the breeding ground of Communism in South East Asia he said. "All this mass of land and people is on the verge of starvation. "If we, their leaders, fail to improve their standards of living, our people will surely fall victims to ideologies other than democracy," he said. Sir John advocated early implementation of President Truman's Point Four plan to aid under-developed areas.

"But," he added, "the British continue to be our best friends." American laws which require blending of synthetic and natural rubber worked great hardship on During the war, by slaughtertapping rubber trees, Ceylon furnished 92 per cent of all natural rubber available to the U.S., said Sir John. # WORLD FACING NEW DARK AGE, UNESCO DELEGATE WARNS

Florence, May 24.

The world faced a new dark age unless men bridged the nightmare gulf of suspicion and hatred that divided them," India's delegate, Dr. S. Radharkrishnan, warned the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation here today.

He strongly condemned State compulsions which were de-humanising men and producing an "ant hill" society.

"While more than half the population of the world in Asia and Africa lives below the normal subsistence level, the other is spending its time, wealth and energy in building armies, navies and air forces which will avert nothing, which will solve nothing," he said.

"While there are millions have no hope, our Governments are engaged in war preparations.

"Whatever may be the military results of another war, which is likely to be atomic, biological and bacteriological, its political results are obvious: extinction of democratic ideas and ideals throughout the world.

"Nobody will stand to gain from it. Whoever may be the nominal victors, neither demoeracy no Communism would survive in their present forms.

"The legacy of hatred, disease and starvation would be incalculable. The destruction, moral and material, would , far outweigh any political or economic selves. ndvantages."

Dr. Radhakrishnan, who is Indian Ambassador in Moscow, wes addressing the 1,000 delegates to UNESCO's fifth general session in the tapestry-hung Hall of the Palazzo Vecchio in Florence.

that his individuality be recognized, that he is not lost in an anonymous crowd. On all sides we see the perfection of organisation and the withering of man.

Debasing of standards

"The eclipse of human rights by State compulsions, the debasing of ethical standards by demagogy in all spheres, politics and art, trade and international relations, the indoctrination the Press, radio and cinema, the bureaucratic control of education, information and publicity are de-humanising men and producing an ant hill society.

"International understanding is one of our central; aims, and yet we are being educated in the wrong way. We are given the contemplation of our own virtues and the condemnation of other people's weaknesses.

"This nation is immoral, that other is decadent. This nation consists of prototypes of slave mentality, that consists of barbarous sub-human gangsters.

"This sort of idiotic chatter, vile nationalist propaganda, goes on in the drawing rooms of even those who consider themselves to be cultivated.

"Every country is someone's country. We must be taught to conder over the defects of ourselves and the qualitles of others, for no nation has a monopoly of either virtue or of vice.

Making faces

"We have become armed missionaries for our ways of life. We are busy consolidating our teams, asking nations to line up on this side or the other.

"We do not talk to each other but make faces at each other. We are facing one another across yawning psychological gulfs of suspicion and hatred.

The cause of revolutions.

Dr. Radhakrishnan said it was an over-simplication to hold some States was the main cause of humanity's troubles.

"The revolution which-started 100 years ago in France is still in progress. Those who are subjected to one form or another of exploitation are attempting to break the shackles of tradition, to liberate themselves from imperial rule, to modernise them-

"The slowness of evolution is the cause of revolutions.'

Dr. Radhakrishnan said that by the technical assistance to under developed areas under President Truman's Point Four programme UNESCO must work to dispel "The dignity of man requires ignorance and raise the standards

"Even Cominform countries will be attracted to the United Nations' ideals if such a scheme is organised. It will remove one of the basic causes of wars, the wide gap between unprecedented wealth in a few countries and grinding poverty in many

Tolerance needed

Dr. Radhakrishnan appealed for the destruction of fanaticism. "Fanaticism is a psychological bar to human unity," he said. "We wish to crush our ponents, beat down our foes, not understand them.

"We in this Organisation balieve that tolorance is the first condition of peace and intolerance is its greatest enemy.

"We must give voice to the desire of the world for peace, democracy, economic and political, and gather round our banner not only the contented and the wellto-do, but the oppresed and the suffering who are the great ma-

London, May 24. The Government of Singathat the increase of intrigues of pore has not acceded to an Indonesian request for the extradition of Captain "Turco" Westerling the West Java rebel leader, who has been detained in Singapore since last Feb-

> Mr. John Dugdale, Under-Sceretary of State for the Colonies, told a questioner in the House of Commons today that a formal application for the extradition of Westerling was submitted to the Governor of Singapore by an Indonesian representative on May 4.

"I am advised by the Governor that while the application made was intended to be a regulsition ander the Anglo - Netherlands treaty of 1898, it was not accompanied by any evidence of commission of the offence referred to.

"Until the Governor is satisfied that the regulation of the treaty and extradition acts have been fulfilled, he is not at-liberty to act upon the Indonesian Government's requests."

Mr. W. L. Wyatt, Labour, asked the Minister if he would instruct the Governor of Singapore to help the Indonesian représentatives in [Singapore in the correct formulation of the reguisition.

ENVOY REFUSED IMMUNITY BY MAGISTRATE

Now Delhi, May 24.

The Court today refused to grant the Argentine Ambassador, Dr. Oscar Tascheret, special diplomatic immunity in the trial of a young Briton who is charged with assaulting him by pouring ice water over him in a hotel fray.

The police prosecutor and the Ambassador's lawyer argued that Dr. Tascheret because of his position should not be asked to appear in court as a witness.

He asked that he be alowed to give evidence inside the Hotel Imperial suite which houses the Argentine Embassy, or by affidavit.

The magistrate replied that the Court's jurisdiction did not extend to the Embassy, which is foreign territory, and ruled that the Ambassador and two other members of the Embassy also listed as witnesses should appear in Court as ordinary citizens if the prosecution wished to present their Documents reproduced in Faci- | evidence against John Edwards, mile at actual or Reduced sizes | aged 27, of London, who is handling his own defence.

Edwards, reading passages from law a weighty international book, successfully objected to the only the beginning of a round-up prosecution's pleas.

A gallon-sized pitcher labelled "Exhibit Bl" stood displayed as the examination of two prosecution witnesses began, Dr. Tascheret was not present.

Manager's story

Such sudden spurts of letters would seem to be evidence that the sufferers are hearing the same racket.

The noise, many correspondents agree, started in 1942. It may be significant, said Mr. Cox, that in that year scientists started intensive work in atomic research, development of radar, jet propulsion and other devices, on and off the list of official secrets. Many use the same phrases in describing the noise. It is "wind singing in telephone wires." It is "a low hum with a secondary higher note." It is "the sound of a distant plane which |never comes nearer." It's "a barrel of angry wasps." It "pulsates, vibrates, stabs your nerves."

Not machines

The Noise Abatement League of which Sir Christopher Robinson is secretary, has taken an interest in it and is keeping, Sir Christopher said, an open mind.
